Turning Kazakhstan's potential into investable opportunities

Who they are

An organisation responsible for attracting strategic investment and promoting Kazakhstan's economic potential internationally.

Key challenges

- Large and diverse economy with many potential opportunities, but no clear prioritisation
- Fragmented information across sectors and regions
- Need for a compelling, investor-ready value proposition and materials
- Increased competition for FDI from regional countries

Their request

Identify and develop the most attractive investment opportunities in Kazakhstan and prepare concise, high-quality investment teasers and supporting analysis to attract strategic investors.

Broad scope to explore the full potential

No restriction on sectors

You may consider any industry or sub-sector (e.g. mining, manufacturing, agri-food, services, etc.).

No restrictions on markets

You may assess both domestic and export-oriented opportunities, with any target markets (e.g. regional, global).

No restrictions on geography

You may propose opportunities in any region of Kazakhstan (including special economic zones) and consider regional synergies.

No financial limits

You may consider opportunities of any scale (CAPEX, investment size, time horizon).

Freedom in approach

You are free to use your own analytical approach, methodology and data sources, as long as it is clearly explained and well-justified.

Use of assumptions

You may make reasonable assumptions where data availability is limited. Please state and justify all key assumptions.
